THE U.K. GOVERNMENT YORK REVIEW ON FLUORIDATION

by Glen S.R. Walker

Who are the real beneficiaries of fluoridation?

Not children, nor adults, not the population at large. Fluoridation is a commercial, industrial "invention" to rid poisonous fluoride waste pollution from fertiliser factories, clearly indicating who is the real beneficiary.

The latest Fluoridation "Final" Review, October 2000 at York University on behalf of the U.K. Government, signposts that the beneficiaries are not the people.

The fluoridation commercial invention enjoys the world's greatest ever financial protection, not to be confused with medical, dental, or pharmaceutical fundamentals of science.

Perhaps the correct classification of fluoridation, medical, dental and political, is encapsulated in the title of the book, "The Greatest Fraud - Fluoridation", by the late Dr. Philip R.N. Sutton, D.D.Sc., L.D.S., F.R.A.C.D.S., Formerly Academic Associate and Senior Research Fellow Dental School, University of Melbourne. That book was his fourth book on fluoridation.

The York Review established that fluoridation dental hype is unacceptable exaggerated junk science, and at that date, October 2000, still no acceptable scientific evidence of safety and effectiveness was found.

The Review Study found most dental fluoridation data of a low scientific standard.

Truth seemed to surface from the water?

Who are the beneficiaries of fluoridated water? From where does all the huge finance originate? Where does its pathway of scientific deception meander worldwide, and who handles it accordingly?

The only situation for the people to become a beneficiary of fluoridation would be a politically democratic action on behalf of the people, and immediately stop fluoridation in Australia. Otherwise the beneficiary is back to square one, the fertiliser factories, and their associated promoters.

The fluoridation straw houses rely upon trusted important organisations such as The World Health Organisation (W.H.O.), the Australian National Health and Medical Research Council (N.H. & M.R.C.), The Australian Medical Association (A.M.A.), and politicians of all persuasions throughout Australian Parliaments, Health Departments and their Ministers, their bureaucrats, and selected Committees overseeing fluoridation.

Not one of the above can produce scientific evidence proving safety and effectiveness of fluoridation for all people. Careful consideration should be observed, that safety and effectiveness must not be separated.

These organisations must know something privy only to themselves as a group, and carefully protected from public scrutiny, otherwise on the available scientific evidence, they should stop fluoridation. One elderly scholar suggested fluoridation and its disciples fall into the following class:

"If you don't know anything about a subject, write about it, and if you don't know anything about a matter, teach it!"

The apathy of Australian people is beyond belief, when they allow politicians to proceed with compulsory mass medication through fluoridation without any proof of safety and effectiveness. (N.H. and M.R.C.).

Hitler is recorded in 1939 as saying:

"A good thing for the government is the people do not think."

An excellent example of community apathy and its dangerous consequences if not recognised by the population.

There is no argument that the actions of politicians on behalf of the people should have a paramount qualification:

"Not to harm any person but to benefit all."

That does not fit the force-fed daily dose of fluoride via your kitchen tap and with the compliments of your elected politician you voted into Parliament to serve you in accordance with the Australian Constitution.

Commonsense, simple chemistry knowledge, together with a dash of honesty, results in a logic that naturally disqualifies any and indeed all the great hype about fluoridation being a process of human benefit to all age groups with all known health variables.

The difference between Governments, politicians, bureaucrats, quangos, selected Government Investigators and Industry is that no Board of Directors or Management would survive in industry, if they could not find any proof relating to their product.

What a contrast to Government Controlled Human Health and their God of Fluoridation, built on sacred sites like Fertiliser Factories and Aluminium Smelters, an untouchable Cult.

The York Review and the N.H. and M.R.C. cannot find actual scientific data that supports their fluoride dogma, all of which should immediately put an official stop to fluoridation, a case of courage and honesty prevailing.

Obviously fluoridation has benefits "for some", but not for human health with Government compulsory mass medication against people's wishes.

If all things were equal, there would be cause for legal action against the perpetrators of fluoridation, but the

Fluoridation demise in Switzerland

Fluoridation stopped after 41 years experimenting on the people

Commission for Health stops Fluoridation in Basel

Swiss Canton Basel-Stadt stopped Fluoridation of Drinking Water on 9 April 2003.

The Great Council of the Swiss Canton Basel-Stadt has, on April 9, 2003, on a motion brought forward by the Commission for Health and Social Issues, totally repealed the "Resolution of the Great council concerning the introduction of fluoridation of drinking water for the control of caries". The fluoridation of drinking water initiated by Basel-Stadt on May 2, 1962 was thus stopped after 41 years.

The reasons that were given were:-

- The preventive effect of the fluoridation of drinking water could not be proved by any study. When specialists do not succeed in producing definite proof in 40 years, the issue has to be abandoned.

- In spite of the fluoridation of drinking water caries has been on the increase with children.

- The danger of fluorosis is played down, nobody talks about fluorosis of the bones. The fluoridation of drinking water is particularly problematic in the case of young children and babies.

- Less than 1% of the fluoride in drinking water is actually used for "prevention of caries", more than 99% of the fluoridated water is used for washing, cleaning, industrial production etc. and thus only pollutes the environment, a very undesirable imbalance.

Medical Capitol stops fluoridation

The news that Basel, Switzerland has stopped fluoridation seems to be causing great concern in dental groups and the fluoridation lobby.

So it should.

Basel, Switzerland, is the centre of the world's medical, chemical and drug manufacturing industries. It is the scientific centre of pharmacology.

Yet Basel has abandoned artificial fluoridation of its public drinking water supplies after 41 years, due to concerns for health, particularly fluorosis caused by artificial fluoridation; lack of proof of effectiveness; an increase in dental decay rather than the reduction that artificial fluoridation is supposed to deliver and pollution of the environment with the toxic fluorides.

This is surely a wake up call to all dentists and politicians in Australia who continue to promote artificial fluoridation of drinking water and a major concern for the population of the many towns and cities across Australia, where fluoridation has been introduced without approval from the citizens.

The Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA) has just urgently recalled from sale over 1,500 brands of pharmaceutical health care products manufactured by Pan Pharmaceuticals in Australia, to prevent possible damage to the health of consumers.

It is surely even more important to stop possible further damage to the health of millions of Australians from consumption of water supplies laced with known toxic fluorides, unregistered for humans, US Congress Report 2001.

However, the TGA has also faced press criticism for acting too slowly in the recall. It was more than 3 months after multiple reports from around Australia of hallucinations, blurred vision, drowsiness, confusion and unsteady walking after taking one product that the TGA initiated the recall.

The ineffectiveness of the TGA as a regulatory Government body has long been a concern to our Associations in relation to poison warnings on and control of fluoride toothpaste sales. Although the warning, "Poison 55, keep out of the reach of children", was on toothpaste tubes until 1960 and therefore only available from chemists, the Government approved removal of this warning by reclassifying toothpastes as cosmetics, with the National Health and Medical Research Council stating that this was

Belgium First Country in World to: PROHIBIT FLUORIDE SUPPLEMENTS July 2002

Belgium Minister of Health says:
"Away with that stuff, we can miss them like toothache." from Dr. Moolenburgh

Fluoride tablets, fluoride drops, fluoride chewing gum, which have, for ten years been promoted as the crown jewels of dentistry, will now be taken out of the market, because they are poisonous and hold a great risk for physical and often also psychological health.

This has been decided by the Federal Minister of Health, Magda Aelvoet. As soon as the Royal Decision appears in the State Magazine, the prohibition is official. Thus Belgium is the first country in the world that forbids fluoride supplements.

A UNICEF Report in 1999 complained that some Governments did not sufficiently realise how damaging fluoride is - especially for children. Children have more tender organisms than adults and are less able to eliminate fluoride.

In the same year Humo wrote a fluoride dossier about the dangers of this stuff (Humo nr 17/3059,200 April 1999). There was a lot of reaction from this article, especially from dentists who, undoubtedly in good faith, took over the arguments of the fluoride lobby.

The benefit of fluoride has for a long time been doubted throughout the scientific world. At least twelve Nobel Prize winners (Chemistry and Medicine) have warned of the health risks.

To have children swallow fluoride is not only completely worthless against tooth decay, it is downright dangerous. Decalcification of teeth and bones as a result of fluoride intake even has a name: "Fluorosis".

Fluoride is very reactive and quickly penetrates deeply into the bones and cells, where it accumulates. Yes, the tooth enamel becomes slightly harder, but the tooth itself becomes more brittle. From quite a few investigations it has become clear that fluoride can cause arthritis, skeletal aberrations, osteoporosis and even bone-cancer. Neither does the brain escape. Fluoride has a negative influence on the nervous system and immune system and in children it can lead to (lasting) tiredness, a lower I.Q., learning disabilities, lethargy and depression.

DUMP AND BE RICH

Sodium fluoride, which is contained in food supplements, is 80 times more poisonous than the natural calcium fluoride.

Of importance is the fact that it is a poisonous waste product of the aluminium and fertiliser industry. Multinationals like EXXON, US Steel and Alcoa thus get rid of their toxic waste products in a completely legal but immoral way and get rich into the bargain.

In the USA, the fluoride lobby is especially determined to put even more fluoride in the water supplies. Who has been appointed as a Minister of Finance by President Bush? Paul O'Neil, the President of ALCOA, the greatest aluminium producer in the world and the original "fluoride in water, use Alcoa fluoride with confidence".

The dental industry will follow, with an eagle eye, the effects of the decision of the Belgian Green Minister.

"Children have more tender organisms than adults and are less able to eliminate fluoride"

UNICEF Report

Minister Aelvoet has proposed to the European Commission that there be a prohibition on all fluoride supplements in the European Union. However, the Commission apparently found it to be a bit premature: the prohibition was put off indefinitely until the question is "harmonised".

Belgium stands alone for the time being, but experience shows that when one member of the Union prohibits a dangerous compound, the rest of Europe follows reluctantly.
